

Enlighten. Employ. Empower.

The Selective Corporate Internship Program

The Selective Corporate Internship Program is a 501(c)(3) organization.

Mission

To “Enlighten, Employ, and Empower” diverse underprivileged students for successful careers through corporate mentorship, leadership development, and internship opportunities.

Founders

Founders Miguel and Monica McClure Mancebo are successful entrepreneurs and former Corporate HR Executives with a wealth of experience in career transition services and talent acquisition. The Mancebos were aware of the lack of opportunities for young people, whose backgrounds might not allow them to consider careers in Corporate Business and STEM. They developed a plan to train and connect deserving students from diverse and disadvantaged environments with the corporate world.

The Mancebos in collaboration with their corporate supporters (many Fortune 500 companies) provide critical technical and essential skills training to these outstanding students, establishing a win-win situation for both the students and corporations. SCIP provides a long term strategy that enhances their education and prepares them to be tomorrow’s leaders.

“We want our young leaders to soar in life. Every student who walks through our door is our future, so we treat them like they’re taking over our legacy.”

-- Miguel Mancebo

Background

In 1997, the Mancebos began working with the Chancellor of the NYC Department of Education to select students from public high schools for an opportunity to gain insight into Corporate America. Within months, they received over 2,000 applications. A committee of corporate leaders was appointed to carefully evaluate and select three talented students. Over the next several weeks, those students were introduced to both entrepreneurs and corporate executives. Some of the first corporate site visits were to Avon, JP Morgan Chase & Co., Con Edison, NBC, and Time Inc. From this point on, the Selective Corporate Internship Program (SCIP) was formed.

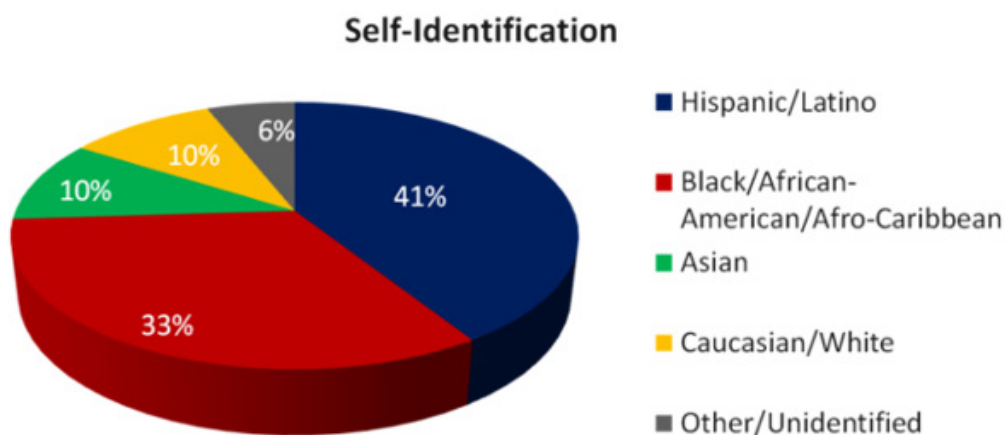

About the Program

SCIP has built on its legacy High School Program (H-SCIP) to create a continuum through its College Programs (C-SCIP). Interns are exposed to global business leaders, trained in corporate communications and coached in professional decorum. These activities take place during the school year and during the Summer Executive Leadership Program. SCIP also provides mentors who help the students develop a strong work ethic, and enables them to identify and take advantage of future opportunities for their college and post-college goals. Throughout the year, SCIP holds business and educational summits and career expos in which our corporate partners attend to recruiting prospective employees.

The Selective Corporate Internship Program is 501(c)(3) organization.

High School (H-SCIP) Impact to Date

The H-SCIP program works alongside corporate partners, focusing on Business and STEM, to provide students insight into future career paths. Through this exposure, SCIP Young Leaders are able to better identify potential majors that may lead to career opportunities of their choice. As a result, students then see college as a critical rite of passage to achieve their long term career aspirations.

For many of our Young Leaders, college was not an option they had considered before enrolling into SCIP and over 92 percent of our students not only choose to pursue a higher education, but are able to attend their first choice of college.

MBA (M-SCIP) Impact to Date

SCIP's MBA program was launched in 2015, in response to corporate demand based on positive outcomes from the C-SCIP and H-SCIP Programs.

A year later, Corporate Executives and Ivy League MBA Graduates formed a steering committee to develop a robust graduate-focused curriculum which will propel SCIP's exceptional talent to the next level. Through the support of key partnerships and funding, SCIP foresees the MBA program to successfully bridge growing corporate demands to place skilled diverse global young leaders in careers to excel.

Rising Stars: SCIP Alumni Stories

Where Are They Now?

Sharif Bennett
Client Representative, IBM
SCIP Class of 1999

"As a teenager, SCIP gave me exposure to professional fields that I may have not looked at or taken interest in. It is important that young people see all walks of life and the SCIP program gave me an early introduction as to the roles and responsibilities adults must face on a day to day basis."

Sharif is from Nyack, NY and since being a part of SCIP has lived in Chicago, Virginia, California, Egypt, the Philadelphia region, and now Atlanta. After completing his MBA full-time in 2015, he joined IBM as a Client Representative. In this role he helps coordinate the sale of IBM software, hardware, and services to his client.

Ravin Harduarsingh
Junior, CUNY Baruch College, Finance Major
SCIP Class of 2013

"A profound memory of SCIP is when I found my mentor, James Pérez Foster. When I first met him at a SCIP Annual Gala, he noticed that I was shy and that I didn't have a great handshake. Through the years he's been able to help me improve where I've been lacking. SCIP has influenced my life in a huge way."

Ravin, a SCIP Senior Team Leader, is pursuing a Bachelor's Degree in Finance with plans to also earn an MBA. As part of an advanced high school program, Ravin completed his Associates Degree at CUNY New York City College of Technology in Liberal Arts and Sciences, on a full scholarship, and graduated high school within three years. Passionate about finance, he learned to trade using a simulated trading account, understood how financial markets function, and implemented technical analysis as young as 15 years old.

Emely Jorge
Junior, Manhattan Bridges High School
SCIP Class of 2016

"SCIP has expanded my endeavors. Throughout the years, many people told me that I have a great future if I put my mind to it and I've been doing so ever since. When I get to college, I will either pursue a career in Computer Science or Law, or maybe both. Upon meeting Honorable Judge Esther Salas at a SCIP site visit, I discovered my passion for justice and equality."

Emely is a high achieving Junior at Manhattan Bridges High School gaining the knowledge of coding and programming. Born in the Dominican Republic, she moved to Manhattan at age 11. In addition to SCIP's Fellows Program, Emely is a part of several programs and organizations, including NYPD Explorers, the Red Cross, and the Student Government Association.

Recognized nationally by the White House, SCIP gained global exposure by showcasing SCIP on Thomson Reuters' 13 jumbotron screens at 3 Times Square. It ran for 2 weeks in April 2016 and was sponsored by Thomson Reuters, designed in-kind by NEMA Associates, Inc., and with collaborative efforts from the Latino Networks Coalition (LNC).
